

EUCARE WORKERS' NETWORK FOR A HUMANE RECEPTION OF NEWCOMERS AND BETTER WORKING CONDITIONS

18 March 2019 18h00-20h30 European Parliament, Room ASP 3H-1

The event brings together MEPs and EPSU's network of workers charged with the reception and inclusion of migrants or asylum-seekers. These workers are facing insufficient human and material resources, lack of training, interpreters, intercultural mediators and, increasingly, hostility from their own governments. Laws that criminalise migrants and those that help them undermine workers' commitment to do their job well and in dignity, for themselves and for migrant and refugee-seeking persons. Restrictions of migrants' rights including access to quality public services threaten the future of many jobs and the guarantee of long-term inclusion of newcomers. As migration dominates the EU elections, this event will bring visibility to these workers and discuss the way forward for a welcoming Europe.
